ABOUT THIS REPORT

This report explores Egypt's New Capital (NC) as a desirable international investment location. The Egyptian government launched a visionary initiative called the NC, which seeks to build a contemporary, sustainable administrative center that promotes economic growth and improves quality of life.

Based on extensive research and analysis, the report provides a comprehensive overview of the NC on many different levels, as we move from the offering side to the demand one, as well as from the government's vision to the private sector's. This helps build a full and clear picture of the progress being made in the NC.

In conclusion, this report shall benefit investors, policymakers, and stakeholders looking to explore the NC's immense potential for growth, innovation, and prosperity.

SECTION I:

GOVERNMENT ACHIEVEMENTS IN NC

Egypt launched the New Capital (NC) as a strategic solution to alleviate the growing pressure on Greater Cairo, whose population capacity is 8-10 mn. Positioned east of Cairo near the Suez Canal area and regional roads, the NC spans 230,000 acres, with the first phase covering 40,000 acres and targeting a population of 2.4 mn. The city is designed as a fully integrated smart capital, incorporating a government district, financial district, residential communities, medical and sports cities, and a city of arts and culture. The details presented in this section are based on official data from government sources, ensuring accuracy and reflecting the latest updates as of May 2025.

Residential development is a crucial aspect of the NC, with multiple large-scale projects offering a diverse range of housing options. Capital Residence (R3), covering 1,016 acres, includes 24,130 housing units, consisting of residential buildings, villas, and townhouses in 8 neighborhoods. In R3, there are 913 units belonging to the “Your Home in Egypt” initiative with different areas. New Garden City (R5), spanning 885 acres, provides 21,494 housing units alongside commercial units which reach 513 units, in addition to 456 villas. Your Home in Egypt initiative provides a lot of units within R5 with diverse spaces starting from 79 sqm to 344 sqm.

Adjacent to the governmental zone, the Central Business District (CBD) is emerging as a commercial powerhouse with 20 high-rise towers on 195 acres. The district includes 10 mixed-use towers spanning 806,000 sqm with different heights, five residential towers including 1,700 housing units, four connected crescent towers, and the landmark 400-meter Iconic Tower, the tallest in Africa, which contains administrative units, hotel apartments, and hotel rooms. These developments solidify the NC's role as a financial and business hub, attracting regional and international investments.

Moving to Knowledge City, which spreads across 221 acres, is positioned as a hub for research, technology, and innovation, contains 57 specialized laboratories, and targets 6,000 students. Knowledge City includes an information technology institute, a national telecommunication institute, and others like Egypt University of Informatics (EUI) which consists of 4 specialized faculties.

According to The Green River, covering 1,000 acres, it will offer green spaces, lakes, and cultural attractions such as Al Fattah- Al Aleem mosque. In addition, Central Park, one of the largest in the world, extends over 1,000 acres with a length of more than 10 km and is designed in multiple phases, CP 01, CP 02 and CP 03. Notably, all details about the three phases are shown in this section of our report.

It is worth talking about the Governmental District in NC, extending across 400 acres, which is the core of Egypt's administrative transformation. It houses the Council of Ministers, the House of Representatives, and ministerial buildings on 1.45 mn sqm for phase 1 with 34 buildings among them there are 29 ministries. The district has been designed to enhance efficiency and digital governance, ensuring streamlined operations within government entities.

Recreational and cultural facilities play a significant role in shaping the NC's livability. The Entertainment District, spanning over 4,256 acres, includes luxury resorts, international hotels, a Formula One racetrack, and Egypt's largest shopping and dining complexes.

The New Capital City is set to become a healthcare hub with its Medical City, which contains 40 plots and is being developed under ACUD. This state-of-the-art medical facility includes specialized institutes, complemented by research centers and central laboratories. The space of each hospital ranges from 20,000 to 70,000 sqm and accommodates between 100 and 350 beds.

Then, we move to the sports city in NC, spanning over 105 acres providing a football stadium complex, and courts for volleyball, tennis paddle, and basketball. It also includes a service area, culture and technology building, and other areas. Finally, in the following section, you will be able to find all the details about the government's achievements in NC.

SECTION II:

NC CONSUMERS' PREFERENCES

As part of this study, the Invest-Gate R&A team surveyed 121 persons from diverse demographics to assess demand trends, buyer preferences in the New Capital (NC), and the potential for relocation beyond the old capital.

CONSUMER DEMOGRAPHICS

The survey findings indicate that the majority of the sample is male, constituting 63%, and females, 37%. The largest age demographics are the 30-39 and 40-49 year brackets, each representing 30% of the market share. Following these are the 20-29 age group (23%) and the 50+ age group (17%). Regarding marital status, a substantial majority (67%) of respondents are either married or engaged, while single individuals account for 27%, and widowed individuals represent 6%. It is noteworthy that all survey participants possess an undergraduate degree, underscoring the highly educated nature of the consumer demographic.

ANALYSIS OF HOMEOWNERS' INSIGHTS

The survey data provides valuable insights into consumer behavior within the NC market. Initially, a significant majority (73%) of respondents have already made a purchase. Examining the motivations behind these purchases, a clear preference for flexible payment options is apparent, with 75% of respondents highlighting this as a key factor. Moreover, security is paramount, influencing the decisions of 64% of buyers. While price and after-sales service are also relevant, they appear to be less decisive factors, impacting 55% and 50% of respondents, respectively. Finally, an analysis of unit ownership reveals that commercial units are the most sought-after (39%), possibly reflecting a strong entrepreneurial spirit among buyers, followed by residential units (32%) and administrative units (29%), indicating a balanced demand across different unit types.

OWNING UNIT IN NC

UNIT TYPE

KEY REASONS FOR BUYING

Regarding residential property choices, the composition of the residential segment among survey respondents demonstrates a clear preference for apartment living, with 50% of this group owning such units. Followed by 25% believe that villas represent the most popular housing choice. Twin houses constitute 14% of the market, while townhouses represent the smallest segment at 11%. This distribution suggests a potential market saturation for apartments or a strong preference for this type of housing within the surveyed population.

RESIDENTIAL UNIT TYPE

Examining respondents' unit sizes reveals a distribution across various square footage categories. Specifically, 33% of homeowners possess units smaller than 80 sqm, while an equal proportion (33%) own units ranging from 80 to 100 sqm. Approximately 23% of respondents have units between 100 and 150 sqm, with the remaining 11% owning larger units exceeding 150 sqm.

UNIT AREA (SQM)

The survey findings provide insights into the distribution of purchased units across different locations within the NC, revealing a clear concentration of purchases in residential neighborhoods (R3, R5, R7, and R8), which account for 31% of all sales. Following this, the government and financial district (22%) and the downtown area (21%) represent significant locations for purchased units, likely driven by proximity to employment centers and urban amenities.

UNIT LOCATION

Regarding unit prices, Analysis of unit prices reveals a segmented market. 16% of buyers acquired units priced below EGP 2 mn. A substantial majority (52%) purchased units within the EGP 2-4 mn range, while 32% invested in properties exceeding EGP 4 mn. This distribution of purchases across different price points suggests a diverse buyer base with varying financial capacities and investment objectives.

UNIT AVERAGE PRICE (EGP MN)

According to purchasing method, the most prevalent method for buyers is through direct interaction with salesmen, accounting for 68% of transactions. Online platforms represent the second most common approach, facilitating 23% of purchases.

PURCHASING METHOD

The survey findings indicate that installment plans are the dominant financing method, used by 94% of buyers compared to just 6% who pay cash. This demonstrates the importance of offering installment options to attract buyers. Regarding installment duration, 42% prefer plans over 8 years, 40% choose 6-8 years, and 18% opt for 3-6 years. This indicates a preference for longer repayment schedules, possibly to reduce monthly payments and make homeownership more attainable.

PAYMENT METHOD

INSTALLMENT PLAN (YRS)

For 74% of NC homebuyers, commercial services are the top priority, followed by entertainment and security at 70%. Medical, educational, and transportation services are prioritized by 45%, 43%, and 30% of buyers, respectively. This data suggests that convenient commercial options and a sense of security are paramount for buyers, while medical, educational, and transportation, though important, are secondary considerations.

REQUIRED SERVICES

ANALYSIS OF POTENTIAL BUYERS' INSIGHTS

From a market perspective, the NC demonstrates a healthy level of interest, with 76% of prospective buyers considering a purchase. The remaining 24% are not interested in the market. Among potential buyers, commercial properties are the most popular choice (48%), followed by residential units (44%). Administrative units have considerably less demand, with only 8% of prospective buyers expressing interest. This data indicates a clear preference for commercial and residential properties over administrative units.

WILLINGNESS TO BUY

PREFERRED UNIT TYPE

Regarding residential unit preferences, Apartments are the most popular residential unit type among potential buyers, with 45% of respondents indicating it as their top choice, while villas attract 19% of buyers. Notably, townhouses and twin houses exhibit similar levels of demand, each registering 18% preference. This distribution suggests a strong preference for apartment living.

PREFERRED RESIDENTIAL UNIT TYPE

Starting with the smallest segment, only 16% of potential buyers are interested in units smaller than 80 sqm. A slightly larger portion (24%) prefers units in the 100-150 sqm range. A more substantial segment (28%) targets units between 80 and 100 sqm. The largest group (32%), however, demonstrates a clear preference for units exceeding 150 sqm. This ascending order of preference clearly points to a market demand for larger living spaces.

PREFERRED UNIT AREA (SQM)

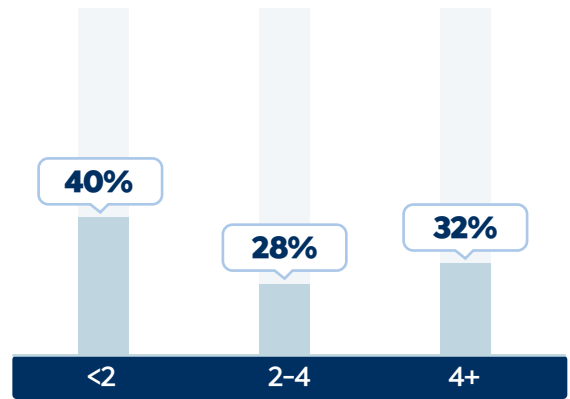

The most favored location among respondents is residential neighborhoods (R3, R5, R7, and R8), attracting 32% of preferences. Following this, the CBD is preferred by 28% of respondents, while the downtown area attracts 20%. Other locations collectively account for the remaining 28%. This data suggests a strong preference for established residential areas, followed by locations offering convenient access to business and commercial activities.

PREFERRED LOCATION

Analysis of price preferences reveals the following distribution: 40% of potential buyers prefer units priced under EGP 2 mn, 28% prefer units in the EGP 2-4 mn range, and 32% target properties priced above EGP 4 mn. This distribution indicates interest across a wide range of price points.

PREFERRED AVERAGE PRICE (EGP MN)

The survey results provide compelling insights into financing preferences. Installment plans are universally preferred by potential buyers (100%) over cash, highlighting their crucial role in the market. Of these plans, 72% are for 8+ years, and 28% are for 6-8 years, demonstrating a preference for longer repayment terms, likely to manage monthly payments.

PREFERRED PAYMENT METHOD

PREFERRED INSTALLMENT PLAN (YRS)

For buyers willing to purchase, Entertainment services are the highest priority for them, cited by 92% of respondents. Following closely behind are security services, valued by 88% of buyers. Medical and commercial services are equally important, prioritized by 84% of respondents. Educational services are considered by 72%, and transportation by 56%.

REQUIRED SERVICES

OBSTACLES OF OWNING UNIT IN NC

Referring to the data collected, high prices are the most significant impediment to purchase in the NC, preventing 100% of our respondents from being interested in purchasing. The inability to manage installment payments is a major deterrent for 88%. The economic crisis poses a substantial challenge for 75% of potential buyers. Geopolitical instability and the scarcity of real estate financing options are additional concerns, each affecting 25% of respondents. These findings highlight the critical role of affordability and economic stability in facilitating sales within the NC.

DRIVERS OF NON-PURCHASING

According to previous analysis, there is a strong demand for commercial and residential units, with installment plans as the preferred payment method. In addition, there is focus on entertainment, security, and commercial services. However, pricing and economic conditions remain key barriers to increased purchases in the NC.

SECTION III:

BOOMING INVESTMENT POTENTIAL FOR DEVELOPERS IN NC

To gain deeper insights into property development trends, sales performance, and investment dynamics in the New Capital (NC), the Invest-Gate R&A team conducted a comprehensive survey targeting 30 private real estate developers.

ANALYSIS OF INVESTMENT TRENDS IN NC

The NC's appeal as an investment destination is evident in the distribution of developer projects. 63% of developers have fewer than three projects in the city, while 33% are involved in three to six. A small but noteworthy 4% has committed to more than six developments, signaling significant confidence in the city's long-term prospects, a healthy and active development landscape within the NC.

AVERAGE NO. OF PROJECTS HELD BY COMPANIES

The data concerning developers' investment in NC reveals that a small fraction of respondents (10%) have invested less than 25% of their total investments in the NC. A further 33% represent roughly one-quarter to one-half of their total portfolios, suggesting a moderate level of commitment. However, a substantial majority (57%) of surveyed developers have allocated more than half of their total investment portfolios to the NC, indicating a high degree of confidence in the city's potential. This distribution of investment capital underscores the NC's continued attractiveness to developers and investors within the real estate sector.

DEVELOPERS' INVESTMENT IN NC VS. OTHER AREAS

Considering developer investments within the NC, the downtown area stands out as the most attractive location, capturing 43% of developer interest due to its commercial appeal and strategic location. Residential neighborhoods (R3, R5, R7, and R8) constitute the second most popular choice, attracting 33% of interest and offering a balance between residential and commercial opportunities. The Central Business District (CBD) and the government and financial districts collectively garner 20% of developer interest. Highlighting the strong appeal of the downtown area, followed by established residential neighborhoods and key business districts.

OPTIMAL INVESTMENT LOCATION

ANALYSIS OF SALES ENVIRONMENT IN NC

Comparing developers' sales within and outside the NC to gain a more comprehensive understanding of sales performance within the NC. The results indicate that a substantial majority (76%) of surveyed developers reported that more than half of their total sales were generated within the NC. A further 17% of developers achieved exactly 50% of their sales in the NC. The remaining 7% of developers reported less than half of their sales within the NC. These figures strongly suggest that properties in the NC have successfully attracted a significant number of buyers, thereby boosting sales performance for developers in recent years.

Referring to available unit type within the NC, administrative and commercial units emerge as the most highly provided, each cited by 90% of surveyed developers. Residential units are also mentioned by 47% of respondents. Medical units constituted 20%. This distribution indicates a strong focus on commercial activity within the NC, with residential units also in demand.

According to residential property demand, the residential sector is heavily skewed towards apartments. All (100%) surveyed developers are active in this segment, highlighting its widespread appeal. Villas are the next most popular choice, preferred by 36% of respondents. Townhouses and twin houses attract interest from 29% and 21% of developers, respectively. These findings underscore the overwhelming demand for apartments in the residential market.

Examination of buyer age distribution indicates that 53% of those keen to purchase property in the NC are between 40 and 50 years old. The remaining 47% of buyers are in the 30-40 year old age range, referring that the NC primarily caters to a mature clientele, with a significant presence of younger buyers also evident.

The projections for future demand within the NC reveal a high degree of confidence among developers. An overwhelming majority (97%) anticipate continued growth, while only a small minority (3%) foresee a stabilization of demand. This overwhelmingly positive sentiment reinforces the NC's established reputation as a premier investment destination and suggests continued robust activity in the city's real estate market.

SALES STRATEGIES & MARKETING DRIVERS

Regarding payment method preferences among developers, installment plans are favored by 33% of respondents as their sole preferred option. However, a substantial majority (67%) of developers utilize a combination of cash and installment plans. This suggests that flexibility in payment options is key within the real estate market, accommodating a wider range of buyer financial situations.

Developers are employing a diverse range of sales and marketing strategies to attract homebuyers. Increasing installment years is the most prevalent approach, cited by 53% of respondents. Reducing prices and down payment reduction are also commonly used tactics, each cited by 33%. A substantial proportion of developers (27%) are implementing other strategies and tactics, such as discounts, emphasizing delivery dates, and highlighting prime location. This multifaceted approach suggests that developers are utilizing a variety of incentives to appeal to potential buyers in the current market.

Analyzing sales channel strategies reveals that dedicated sales departments are the most effective, accounting for 57% of transactions. Subsequently, brokerage companies facilitate 30% of sales, while exhibitions contribute 17%. Finally, online platforms account for 13% of sales. Therefore, this data suggests that direct sales efforts are the most successful approach, followed by collaborations with brokerage companies and participation in exhibitions. However, online platforms, while utilized, currently play a less prominent role in driving sales.
